The People of the Lemberg Program
1989-1999

JUNE 1999
WALTHAM, MA

Dear Friends,

This reunion year celebrates several anniversaries, all of them noteworthy.

It's the tenth anniversary of the first Lemberg graduating class. It's the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Graduate School of International Economics and Finance. And it's the fiftieth anniversary of the institution that, by its tradition of innovation and openness to new ideas, made all these other anniversaries possible.

We celebrate the coming of age of an idea: the idea of a special academic community organized around what has come to be known as "globalization."

Ten years ago we didn't use that term, but all of us involved in the Lemberg Program—students, faculty, staff, supporters—understood it instinctively. We knew that business and economics were undergoing tremendous change and that our professional lives would be shaped by the integrated markets of a shrinking world.

This special academic community is now vibrant and real. The idea succeeded because it was—and is—uniquely appropriate for its time. It also succeeded because of the nurturing yet demanding environment of Brandeis University. But most of all, it succeeded because of the talents of hundreds of people who embraced it with energy and enthusiasm.

This booklet recognizes the people who made it happen. To all of them—to each other—we owe an enormous debt of gratitude. And a big cheer for a job well done!
